THE DOSS HOUSE

Recapturing the convivial spirit of Sydney's formative years, The Doss House unites fine spirits & cocktails with the historical charm of one of the city's oldest suburbs, The Rocks. Built in the 1840s, this space has been the home to a rich, eclectic collection of tenants including a bootmaker, boarding house, doctor's surgery & opium dealer, some which have been entwined within the interiors of the five, cosy bar spaces. The result is a bar steeped in character, ambiance & history. Welcome to The Doss House.

WORLD OF WHISKY

— 35 —

Suntory Chita Grain Malt 43% Japan

Aged in a combination of wine, sherry and bourbon casks.
This is a light whisky with subtle notes of mint, honey and wood spice.

Bushmills 10 Year Old 40 % Ireland

A former winner of Best Irish Single Malt Whiskey in the World at the World Whiskies Awards, this has a far greater depth of flavour than standard Irish blends. Sweet honey, vanilla and milk chocolate aroma.

Jim Beam Bonded 50% America

Vibrant but bold, with soft creamy body. Notes of cherries, coconut, toasted almond and tobacco.

Starward Wine Cask Malt 41% Australia

Matured in Barossa ex-shiraz casks for only a few years in 100 and 200 litre casks which give notes of vanilla, prunes and plums with a pleasant fruity chocolate spice on the finish.

Bowmore 12 Year Old Islay Malt 40% Scotland, Islay

Vanilla fudge, sea air and peat smoke, balanced beautifully by honeycomb and cinnamon spice

WANDER AROUND SCOTLAND

Ancnoc 12 Year Old 40% Highland

(pronounced a-knock) Wonderfully light and delicate to the nose and palate, notes of fresh citrus and honey are present.

Auchentoshan 12 Year Old 40% Lowland

Triple distilled then matured for over twelve years, this lowland whisky has the tempting aroma of toasted almonds and caramelised toffee.

Benriach Heart Of Speyside 40% Speyside

This expression cleverly captures fruit, honey, heather and spice notes against a backdrop of mellow oak wood, in a fresh and lively combination.

Talisker 10 Year Old 45.8% Isle Of Skye

A well-known brand which represents outstanding value. Matured in fourth fill casks to maximise the unique character of the spirit, this whisky is bold and meaty with up front sweetness that fades into a salt and pepper laden smoky finish.

Laphroaig Select Cask 40% Islay

The heart of this single malt is drawn from a final maturation in new American Oak casks, a rarity used for Scotch whisky maturation. With spirit selected by the master distiller from Quarter Cask, PX Cask and Triple Wood (European Oak casks) and a final addition of 10 Year Old, the whisky represents a subtle blending of peat, oak and sweetness.

Bladnoch Adela 15 Year Old 46.7% Lowland

“Adela”, meaning ‘noble’, signifies the richness and depth of flavour for our 15 Year Old malt matured in oloroso casks.

Tobermory 21 Year Old 1994 Douglas Laing Bottling 51.5% Isle Of Mull

A Douglas Laing bottling of 21 year old whisky from the Tobermory distillery on the Isle of Mull, aged in a refill hogshead from July 1994 to December 2015. It was bottled for the Old particular range with an outturn of 306 bottles.

Tomatin 2004 Single Cask (Moscatel) 56.8% Highland

Distilled in 2004 and bottled in 2017 at cask strength, just 314 bottles were released. This has had a finishing period in a barrique that previously contained Moscatel, a naturally sweet wine produced in a similar way to Pedro Ximénez sherry.

Ardbeg perpetuum 2015 47.4% Islay

Released during Feis Ile 2015 to celebrate Ardbeg’s 200th anniversary, this is a blend of old and young whisky, matured in both bourbon and sherry casks, delivering the classic Ardbeg note of cured meats, smoke and sea spray.

Glendronach 21 Year Old Parliament Highland

Best Scotch Highlands Single Malt 2018 (World Whiskies Awards) This rich expression has been named ‘Parliament’ after the colony, or ‘parliament’, of rooks that have been nesting in the trees that overlook the GlenDronach distillery for almost 200 years. Resolute flavours of rich Oloroso sherry, full bodied with smooth tannins.

Balvenie Malt 25 Year Old Triple Cask Sepyside

This incredible expression contains whiskies aged in traditional refill casks, first-fill ex-bourbon barrels and first-fill Oloroso Sherry butts, which have been matured for at least 25 years and allowed to marry for around six months in a marrying tun before being bottled. This emphasises the honeyed, fruit-forward style of the Speyside malt, with a touch of spice from the Sherry oak.

Redbreast Irish Whiskey 21 Year Old

Awarded Irish Whiskey of the Year in Jim Murray’s Whisky Bible 2017 and 2018. It was awarded 2nd finest whisky in the world also by Murray. The oldest expression from Redbreast so far, this is a combination of malted and unmalted barley matured in a mixture of bourbon barrels and first-fill oloroso casks, resulting in a rich and complex whiskey.

Nikka Taketsuru Fortune 80 Malt Japan

A monumental Japanese blend produced between 1980-1990 from Yoichi and Miyagiko distilleries. This bottle was named after Masataka Taketsuru, founder of Nikka and father of the Japanese whisky industry. Produced in the 80’s until the end of the 90’s after which it was discontinued. A rare chance to taste history

Scotland

HIGHLAND

If you roughly drew a line between Edinburgh and Glasgow, everything above that would be the Highlands. The Highlands is Scotland's largest whisky producing area, covering to the north of Glasgow all the way to Wick in the north, not to mention the east and west regions excluding Speyside. Due to the large area, whisky in the Highlands is very diverse and offer a vast amount of different flavours so it's hard to put a certain style on Whisky from this region. Typical notes from this region would be of peat, honey, and heather in a much more robust, dry body.

Lowland whisky is most commonly gentle and light, often lacking in any serious peaty flavours. Commonly known as the "Lowland Ladies", these drams will often offer a gentle, elegant palate reminiscent of grass, honeysuckle, cream, ginger, toffee, toast and cinnamon. This sophisticated style is a result of the unique triple distillation only common in the Lowlands, and has resulted in Lowland whisky being uniquely suited to introduce malts to new whisky drinkers.

The small island of Islay is tucked away in Scotland's southernmost part of the Inner Hebrides. Due to unique make up of the peat on the island, Islay malts are pungent with smoke, brine and peat on the nose, but multilayered on the palate, displaying anything from mossy, peaty, floral mixes to peppery linseed and soapy hints. This complexity of layers is the reason Islay malts are often prized as the best in Scotland.

The region of Speyside is located in the north east of Scotland surrounding the River Spey, it's seen to be more of a sub-region to the neighbouring Highlands because of the high density of distilleries in the area. It's home to highest number of distilleries in Scotland with well over 60 at present. Due to the sheer volume of distilleries, there's a huge amount of difference in the character of Speyside Scotch, from lighter grassy numbers, to the sweeter, richer, sherried type. The single malts from the area are notable for their refined smokiness and complexity.

Ireland

Deriving from the term uisce beatha – meaning ‘water of life’ – even the word whiskey has Gaelic roots. One of Europe’s earliest distilled beverages, the first record of Irish whiskey dates back to 1405, around 90 years before it was first recorded in Scotland. Producing Irish whiskey evolved from a local pastime into an industry in 1608, when Northern Ireland’s Old Bushmills Distillery became the world’s first licensed whiskey distillery. Much of current production is distilled using a mixture of grains and unmalted barley, oats, wheat and rye. Triple distillation is also very common which results in a lighter, fragrant dram and a more approachable way to start drinking whiskey.

Australia

Australia has had a long history of spirits and distilling dating as far back as the First Fleet when convicts and settlers landed in 1788, there was also 65,000 litres of rum to accompany them. Hard Liquor was so valued it even became the currency at the time, Australia's first!

But this burgeoning market wasn't to survive. In 1839 the Distillation Prohibition Act banned colonial distillation altogether and it was to be another 153 years before anyone was granted a distilling licence

Fast forward to 1992, Lark Distillery founder Bill Lark who not only resurrected Tasmanian distilling, but distilling all across Australia. At end of 2017, there were more than 120 listed distilleries in Australia with 31 of these in Tasmania.

These New World Whiskies have been highly praised internationally, even so in 2014 Sullivan's Cove French Oak Cask winning best World's Single Malt, the first time a distillery outside Scotland or Japan had won the award.

Japan

Japanese whisky owes its origins to Scotland. Masataka Taketsuru, whose family owned a sake brewery is known as the 'Father of Japanese Whisky'. After studying chemistry in Glasgow and working closely at the Longmorn Distillery, he then returned home and founded the Suntory Yamazaki Distillery with Shinjiro Torii. 10 years later Taketsuru went on to open his own distillery - Nikka Yoichi. Developments in whisky production including the use of a Coffey Still, utilising Japanese oak to finish whisky and reduction of lipids in wort have resulted in a delicate and floral dram that encapsulates pure harmony and balance.

America

American whiskey is a distilled beverage produced in the United States from a fermented mash of cereal grain. Among the types included under this designation are bourbon whiskey, rye whiskey, rye malt whiskey, malt whiskey, wheat whiskey, and corn whiskey. All of these are made from mashes with at least 51% of their named grains.
